Herbalife's preferred membership program is a great way to enjoy the company's nutrition and fitness products at discounted rates. Herbalife's preferred membership program is not only a cost effective way to purchase Herbalife products but also offers additional benefits and incentives.

Herbalife's preferred customers can also earn money by referring other members to the company. This is not a scheme to "get rich fast", but a way to earn extra income that you can diversify over time. This type of income is not an alternative to traditional employment.

Preferred members can also earn cash rebates on purchases made by their referrals. The rebate amount will be determined by the total order value. This amount is added to the preferred members' sales total. Unlike distributors, preferred members are not eligible to earn commissions on their own purchases.

Herbalife's preferred membership also gives you access to the most recent product information and training materials. Anyone who wants to grow his or her business and become a Herbalife leader will need this. The leadership team of the company is always working to improve the system so that preferred members can have the best experience possible.

Herbalife member service representatives are on hand to answer any questions you may have about Herbalife services and products 24 hours a days. They can assist you in identifying the right Herbalife products for your needs and provide tips on how to become an effective coach.

Herbalife charges an annual fee to cover the costs of its computer processing and other services. This fee must be paid by the member and received by Herbalife prior to the expiration date of the original membership. Typically, Herbalife will send a reminder to the Member by email or mail before the fee is due. The fee is non-transferable and Herbalife can refuse to accept payment if they believe that the transaction would be in violation of company rules.
